PROMPT FREE DELIVERY TO ANY PART OF THE CITY

A MAN never regrets putting off until tomorrow that which it would be wrong to do to-day!

WE regret to learn that Editor Joe Webb is ill with typhoid fever at his home in Lytle, and wish him a speedy recovery.

CUT the weeds and swat the flies and mosquitoes. The health of our town is remarkably good for the time of year and let's leave nothing undone for its preservation.

THE Democratic fight for tariff reform in the present session of congress will probably amount to nothing more than a lot of expensive political by-play for which the country must pay. With a senate and a president against them nothing can be accomplished save by the grace of the Republican majority, and little of the nature of substantial reform can be looked for from that source.

THE bushwhacker and its protégé, the spiterag, slunk back into their own littleness this week and refused to come out into the open or refer to our demand for the privilege always accorded by decent journals, space to defend one's self when attacked by a correspondent through its columns. But we did not expect anything better of this disgrace to decent journalism, and we merely did it to make it show up its miserable character.

POOR old suffering Job had it in so deeply for a certain lobster that, in his helpless rage, he exclaimed: "O, that mine enemy might write a book!" The same spirit is manifest down at Hondo, where Editor Davis of the Hondo Herald, capers in mad glee because his old enemy [?] is running for the legislature. "At last the Fates have placed him in my hands. He is caught in the trap. Questionless none but a newspaper man would have been such a guileless idiot! Support Joe Boehmer? Of course I will! R-r-revenge! — Alpine Guide. Uh-huh!

"The country weekly is read closer than any other paper that enters the home especially by the mothers and children. In view of this fact it should make a constant effort to hold out high ideals, clothed in creditable wording. Otherwise its visits are lowering rather than elevating." — Spiterag. Even so. Then when the reference to "pleasure" conjures up from your sin-seared soul the recollection of "something dark in a distant and hidden past" why pollute those columns with the "lowering" reference to a Belshazzar debauch? Oh, Consistency! Thou art a word not written in the Spiterag's lexicon!

It is only one month until the prohibition election to be held July 22nd will be here. We presume that every one has made up his mind ere this how he will cast his vote. If not it is time you were getting posted. In this connection it might be noted that a greater danger to the country lies in those who will not vote than in those who do. To be sure, we regard a vote for statewide prohibition as an assault upon the individual rights of the citizen, not to say any thing about the assault upon the property rights of some, that should have no place in this enlightened day and generation. But the few who are so unmindful as to make this assault will be helpless to accomplish any harm if every one will arouse himself and vote for the perpetuation of those liberties for which our forefathers fought and have evolved out of the travail of the years. Don't forget your duty to yourself, your family and your country and go to the polls July 22nd and see that your ticket reads "Against Prohibition".

Not in Favor of Prohibition.
 Gov. Baldwin was interviewed today regarding an editorial which appeared in the current issue of The Voter, the official organ of the Prohibition party of Connecticut, to the effect that he, on the ground that the organization favored the prohibition of the liquor traffic, had refused to deliver an address of welcome at its national session in South Manchester next July. The Governor said:
 "I am flooded with invitations to give addresses on all sorts of occasions and have to make some selection. In making my selection for next month I concluded not to accept that of the total abstinence society which is referred to in the article from The Voter which you show me.
 "I think that a pledge of total abstinence from intoxicating liquors is to most men a safeguard of health and character, but I am not a believer in crowding total abstinence down everybody's throat. Prohibition in my view should be a matter of local option and while I am not accustomed to take anything myself I have always voted for license in New Haven, believing it to be too large a city to be governed under a rule of prohibition.
 "Mr. Hohenthal, with whom I had my correspondence, is chairman of the state executive committee of the Prohibition party of Connecticut. I am not in sympathy with the legislative or constitutional platform of that party."
 The article which appeared in The Voter follows:
 "On the ground that the organization favors the prohibition of the liquor traffic, Governor Baldwin has declined to deliver an address of welcome to the members of the oldest national total abstinence society of America at its national session in South Manchester in July." — New Haven (Conn.) Ed Ingram, one of our most successful farmers, was exhibiting some of the products of his farm in town Wednesday. Among them were several ears of corn well developed and despite the drouth, almost perfect in their maturity. He says he bought the seed from Albert Pichot and Walter Short and recommends them to parties needing seed corn in future. He also showed us some Kaffir corn and Milo Maize which could not have been better no matter what kind of a season we might have. Mr. Ingram is a farmer who believes in thoroughly preparing his soil before planting and frequent shallow cultivation after his crop is up. He never fails to make some crop no matter how dry. We can't say so much for his poultry, however, as he was showing a freak egg that was about as small as you ever find. There wasn't meat enough in it to make a Tom Ball egg nog, and everybody knows that's mighty little!

SATURDAY, JUNE 24, 1911.

As to An Equal Footing.

The Spiterag says: "The two papers are on equal footing in Hondo, and draw support largely upon the kind of service given and the correctness of principles advocated."

We confess to an inability to understand what this means or its application as argument on the prohibition question, a proposition which it claims to be discussing above the level of personalities! But let us examine it.

When the editor of this paper came to Hondo he bought out the paper then existing here at its owner's price and came here to earn a living by attending to his own business and to dwell in peace with every one. He succeeded to his own satisfaction and seemingly to the satisfaction of every body except a few prohibitionists. These became dissatisfied because he chose to run his business to suit himself instead of them, and set about to have a paper that would be run to suit them. A strong effort was made to raise a bonus of $500 and to secure a subscription list of five hundred so as to have "a straight out prohibition paper" and to force the Anvil Herald out of business. They succeeded in attracting the attention of several newspaper men who either turned the proposition down or were turned down by its promoters because, so we have been informed, of the stipulation that the rag must "espouse the cause of prohibition in any contest that might come up." At last, however, the present management of it, who, if we are to judge by the Christine Ledger of September 23, 1910, had made himself too obnoxious in that town to find it agreeable to remain there, snapped up the proposition with the avidity of the proverbial drowning man catching at a straw, and came here with the avowed intention on his lips of "keeping the Anvil Herald man straight".

So, whatever the present footing, it will be seen that the two papers came in on entirely different kind of feet!

On the matter of policy, the Anvil Herald if taken at all must be taken as it is and for what it is. Contrast this policy with the following from the Spiterag of December 22nd: "Some, not necessarily antis, subscribed saying they wanted the—so long as it did not take up a prohibition agitation. As a business proposition we invariably state to these that their money will be refunded at any time should we wage a prohibition fight objectionable to them". Wouldn't it be interesting to see the list of names of those to whom it has refunded their money together with the amount so refunded?

So, as a matter of policy it is readily seen that we do not stand on the same footing.

Now as to the matter of securing business, the Anvil Herald publishes local advertisements on running accounts at the rate of three cents a line and guarantees to print a thousand papers each week. Will the management of the Spiterag deny that he solicited the same business for five cents and when it was refused him accepted it at our rate? Will he swear to the amount of his circulation over 475 and claim that he is standing on an equal footing in giving service when he is paid the same price for advertising and gives less than the same circulation? Of course, this has only a remote, if any, connection with prohibition, and we merely cite it as an incite to where the advertising public will get the Spiterag's "feet" on them should they assist its promoters to a consummation of their purpose to "force the Anvil Herald out of business".

So, on this score, it will be found that his claims are as unreliable as were those that the rag was not going to be a prohibition paper, and wholly without credibility.

Right here, we invite a comparison of the two statements taken from the Spiterag of their respective dates:

December 22nd it said:

"Now that it has seemed necessary to refer to prohibition we will say that we are a prohibitionist because we consider the objectionable features of the liquor traffic of more vital concern to the whole people than the advantages derived. We do not believe, however, that to everlastingly nag at an issue on which our people are hopelessly divided is the part of judgment for country papers. It only irritates, driving neighbors and business associates further apart, bringing harm to the community."

In its issue of May 25th, it says:

"The opposition to the drink evil is based on fundamental principles, wider than any community. The rum evil is today our greatest political evil, and operates more towards debauchery than any other influence, being recognized and discussed and fought the world over.  We refuse to abandon our local option position, but should state-wide fail WE SHALL GLADLY GO AS FAR AS POSSIBLE with the Herald in a right direction by co-operating IN EXTENDING its new spouse, LOCAL OPTION, TO THE COUNTY LIMITS."

Why is the whisky traffic so fraught with evil on May 25th when there were some advantages to offset its evils December 22nd? Why is the opposition to the traffic broader than any community now while the interests of the community were paramount December 22nd? Why so willing to "nag" at it now, to irritate, to drive neighbors and business associates apart and bring harm to the community on May 25th and so adverse to it Dec. 22nd? Are you making good on the promise to "espouse the cause of prohibition in any contest that might come up"? Or do you merely feel surer that you will not drive some of your business associates from you? Or don't you care how much harm you bring to the community?

But, of course, he will throw another fit of righteous indignation because the Anvil Herald is indulging in personalities. Let us anticipate this. Who first dealt in personalities?

In its issue of December 15, 1910, there appeared an article in the Spiterag which we then and now describe as "an article that, taken by itself, would lead one to believe that this paper had made an indiscriminate and scurrilous attack upon the whole body of Christians". We denied then and deny now any such attack and any intention or desire to make such an attack, and asked the question: "Now that his error has been pointed out to him will he have the Christian manhood to make correction"? His answer was "No".

We leave it to a candid world to judge between he and this writer as to who has been the greatest offender as to the use of personalities and as to the credibility of his claims as to an equal footing on any score!

Baldwin On Prohibition.

Gov. Baldwin makes it quite clear that he is not in favor of prohibition. Consequently he will not make an address of welcome to the Prohibition conference to be held in South Manchester in July. He has many other invitations to other functions that seem to him to deserve his presence more than a body of undoubtedly well intentioned enthusiasts who, in the words of the Governor, "are trying to crowd total abstinence down everybody's throat."

Good for Gov. Baldwin! This is what we call having the courage of one's convictions. And better still the convictions in this instance are right and just. Prohibition has proven a flat failure. In 1903, when Vermont and New Hampshire, after many years of trial, repealed prohibition, the best judgment of the country believed that prohibition was a dead issue. The state-wide prohibition wave that started with Georgia in 1907 did not represent the sober sense and conviction of the public, but was brought about by a frenzy, created through buncombe, that has had no parallel in the political history of the country. State-wide prohibition was doomed from its beginning. It will probably never again move the public as it did in the eighties, when it was really a serious issue, and as it has done during the past few years. Missouri's majority against prohibition last November was 218,125 in a total of 632,687. This overtops the 188,027 majority against prohibition by Pennsylvania in 1889. Florida's majority against prohibition was about 6,500 in a total vote of about 50,000. Public sentiment on the question is more correctly reflected by the Missouri than by the Florida vote. There are important contests yet to be waged. The elections to be held on the question in the states of Texas and West Virginia shortly are merely the culmination of past agitation, and their purpose is to clear the boards of the issue. In the state of Maine resubmission has been forced by an overwhelming public opinion against the wish of the dominant party in the state.

Everywhere there is evidence of a distinct tendency away from prohibition. The needs of more than 80 per cent of the people have called into existence the liquor trade, the product of which their overwhelming judgment has declared by usage to be wholesome. The people are seeking to hinder individual abuse as far as possible by regulating the distribution of the product, but experience has taught even the total abstainer that prohibition does not prohibit.

It is the duty of the liquor trade to show sturdy compliance with the laws as they are. Bad laws tempt disobedience, and this is more natural when the laws forbid things not felt by the mass of the people to be unreasonable. Bad laws enforced and complied with hasten their own improvement. Laws cannot stand which, in their effect, defy the will and the belief of the people. So long as the liquor trade stands firmly in the position of obedience to present regulation and shows a willingness honestly to do its share in the improvement of the laws, it will be worthy of the function which the public has delegated to it, and will do its share toward reaching that maximum of efficiency in regulation for all concerned which the public at large desires and eventually will secure.

day the people and the liquor trade of this country will have completed their experiments in regulation, and from those experiments will have drafted a system of regulation which will accomplish a maximum of good, and relieve the liquor industry from the harassment of uncertainty and mistake to which, in the past, it has been subjected.

George Christilles and his son, Paul, were up from Noonan Tuesday in their new Ford automobile. They brought with them Messrs. Louis Boenig and August Vollmering who came up on legal business connected with the sale of land. In the afternoon, the Messrs. Christilles, Toby Koch and the Anvil Herald man took a run to D'Hanis. It is a real pleasure to ride in the Ford auto, as it travels with the ease and speed of the higher priced cars. At D'Hanis we were pleasantly entertained by a number of its citizens, including the News force. A visit to the D'Hanis brick plant which we found running to its full capacity of 20,000 brick daily was quite a revelation in the production of building material. Under the management of Joe Carle the company has gotten the business down to a splendid system and are placing the finished product all over this entire section. The party returned late in the afternoon to Noonan, and Mr. Christilles, who is the agent for this car, expects to place orders for several of them among people whom he visited that day.

County Board of Education.

The following letter, handed us by County Judge Haass, is self-explanatory:

AUSTIN, TEXAS, MAY 16, 1911.

To the County Judge and the County Superintendent:—

You will permit me to respectfully direct your attention and the attention of the members of the commissioners' court of your county to Sections 4, 6 and 12 of the rural high school law enacted by the 32nd Legislature, which goes into effect on June 11, 1911.

Section 4 requires the commissioners' court of your county, at its first meeting after June 11, to appoint five county school trustees (the county board of education) to serve until the election and qualification of their successors in 1912, their election by the people in 1912 occurring on the first Saturday in April, the date of election of the trustees of common school districts.

Section 6 vests all rights and powers pertaining to public free schools, that have heretofore been vested in the commissioners' court, in the county trustees (the county board of education).

Section 12 is here quoted in full: "The county school trustees shall be qualified voters and freeholders of the precinct or county from which they are elected. They shall be of good moral character, able to read and speak the English language, shall be persons of good education and shall be in sympathy with public free schools. Four of the county school trustees shall each reside in different commissioners' precincts, and a majority of them shall reside in common school districts. Within twenty days after their election and qualification the county school trustees shall meet and organize by electing one of their number president. The county school trustees shall be elected and shall qualify in the same manner as other county officers are elected and qualified."

All of the provisions of the law are conservative and wise and contemplate a co-operation of the county board of education, the county superintendent, and the district school trustees in the promotion of the efficiency of the schools and in establishing rural high schools where practicable. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that the commissioners' court in each county select men, for membership on the county board of education, who have the qualifications prescribed in Section 12 of the act.

The State Department of Education hopes to have printed for distribution at an early date among the school officials of the State the full text of this law. As soon as your county board of education has been selected, please report their names and addresses to me.

With best wishes for the educational interests of your county, I am,

Respectfully yours,

F. M. BRALLEY,
State Superintendent.

At the meeting of the Commissioners' Court last week there were petitions before the Court for the appointment of Messrs. Louis A. Heyen of New Fountain, Precinct 1, and H. G. Wilson of Yancey, Precinct 3, but the court postponed the entire matter until its regular August term, when one trustee from each Commissioners' Precinct and one from the county at large will be appointed as required by law.

In the meantime, parties wishing to recommend any one to the court for appointment should get their petitions ready.

About Telephones.

Manager J. B. Hurt of The Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. returned last week from San Antonio where he attended a meeting of commercial managers for what is known as the Southwest Texas division and of agents and owners of connecting line companies.

Mr. Hurt has outlined the work of the convention and it will be of interest to every user of a telephone to know that practically the entire discussion was based upon efforts to improve the service and to devise a method by which the conditions of operation of the Bell system may be made so familiar to the public that the fullest measure of co-operation between the company and the subscriber may be gained.

Telephone development in Texas has been remarkable during the last 10 years. There are now more than 200,000 Bell instruments in use in Texas and Arkansas and within the next twenty years it is expected that every house will be connected with the rest of the world by the copper strands that have eliminated the very idea of isolation in what was, half a century ago, one of the most thinly settled portions of North America.

Everywhere over Texas and Arkansas new farmers' lines, owned by the farmers themselves, are being extended so that to day any one within sight of a telephone pole line is within hearing distance of practically anyone anywhere, connecting with the long distance lines of the Southwestern company and so with exchanges in every city and town within the radius of the telephonic voice is afforded at a very low cost, while weather forecasts and important information are provided free to insure agriculturalists against loss by frost and rain.

An Important Deed.

There was filed for record in the County Clerk's office Wednesday a deed from Alex Y. Walton Jr., Terrell Bartlett, Willis Ranney, Duval West and Thomas B. Paifrey to the Medina Irrigation Company for the consideration of $149,200.00 in cash and cash values by which the aforesaid parties transfer all the right and title belonging to them included in the Medina irrigation project.

The land to be irrigated consists of 150,000 acres, the head-gates will be situated from 11 to 14 miles north of Castrovilla, and will embrace several surveys. The canals will be about 100 feet wide at the bottom and 15 feet deep, with a maximum carrying capacity of 1,110 cubic feet per second. It is proposed to place the main dam about 14 miles north of Castrovilla and a secondary dam 11 miles north of Castrovilla. The holding capacity of the reservoirs will be 19,385,000,000 cubic feet, flooding about 12,000 acres and representing the storm water discharge of the entire Medina river drainage area above that point and comprising about 700 square miles.

The Medina Irrigation Co. was recently chartered under the laws of Texas and maintains offices in San Antonio. It is capitalized at $1,000,000, and proposes spending six million dollars on the enterprise.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

MOHAMMED THE FIRST.

He Enforced Total Abstinence by Religious Teachings.

Mohammed was the world's first prohibitionist.

Through the force of his religious teachings he bent his followers to abstain from alcohol, and the adherents of the Koran still obey its mandate in that respect.

By precept he accomplished what the modern prohibitionist is trying to effect through mandatory legislation.

China, India and Turkey are today under nation-wide prohibition enforced through the mandates of religion.

The opium and hashish habits have stamped themselves upon the people of the nations.

Upon this subject Frederick W. Lehmann, Solicitor General of the United States, says:

"But all dominion did not pass from the Mahomedan on the field of Tours. The followers of the Prophet today numbered nearly two hundred millions. The mandate of the Koran against the use of wine stands unrepelled and the faithful still obey. Compare these people with the descendants of the followers of Charles Martel. On which side is the cleaner life in private and in public? Where prevails the higher standard of morality, in Turkey and in Asia, or in the rest of Europe and in the United States? The disciples of Buddha and Confucius, too, refrain from the use of wine but despite their abstinence theirs is a stagnant civilization of merely passive virtues."

LAWS UNCHANGED.

Defeat of Amendment Would Leave Conditions as Now.

By defeating the state-wide prohibition amendment the local option laws will remain in force just as they are.

Counties now under license will remain so and counties classed as dry will continue the same as if no election had been held.

But on the other hand if the state wide amendment carries the present local option system, which has required the courts of Texas 34 years to perfect, would be wiped out and new laws for the enforcement of the state-wide provision would have to be framed subjecting the state to legal controversies for many years to come and involving the people in the sections where prohibition is not desired in turmoil and dissension as has been the experience of Maine, Alabama and all other states which have experimented with the state wide theory.

CHAS. W. ELIOT'S VIEWS

Former President of Harvard Tells of Serious Effects of Prohibition.

Ex-President Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard, sums up the whole case against prohibition in its effects on the social and political life. He says:

"The efforts to enforce it (prohibition) during forty years past have had some unlooked for effects on public respect for courts, judicial procedure, oaths and law, legislatures and public servants. The public has seen law defied, a whole generation of habitual law-breakers, schooled in evasion and shamelessness, courts ineffective through fluctuations of policy, delay, perjuries, negligence and other miscarriages of justice; officers of the law double-faced and mercenary, legislators timid and insincere."

GOMPERS ON PROHIBITION.

President of Federation of Labor Says Experience Has Proved Its Folly.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor in a statement issued by him on prohibition says:

"Experience has shown the folly of prohibition wherever it has been tried, and that saloons can be regulated by law.

"There is not a city in Maine where a stranger can not go and buy all the beer and whiskey he wants. There is no attempt whatever to disguise the fact that these places are operating in violation of the law.

"As for the illicit traffics, I have seen drunken people in every city, but I have never seen drunks so drunkly drunk as the drunks I saw in Maine.

"Organized labor has been and now is a greater factor for temperance throughout the United States than all the prohibition societies and temperance workers in the land ever have been."

50 Per Cent Better

"I have used less than one bottle of Cardui," writes Mrs. Gertrude Ward, of Rushville, Neb., "and am feeling fifty per cent better than when I began taking it."

"Before taking Cardui, I had suffered with female trouble, for eight years. My greatest trouble was irregularity. I also suffered with severe pains, every month, but now I am greatly improved and will recommend Cardui to all my suffering friends."

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

The rare medicinal herbs of Cardui are imported by the manufacturers direct from Europe and are not to be found in any other medicine.

These ingredients are what give Cardui its superiority, as a female medicine and tonic, over any other medicine.

For over 50 years Cardui has been the favorite woman's medicine. The ladies like it, because it is so easy to take, so gentle, so safe, so reliable in its results, and they have faith in its curative tonic powers, because of the thousands of other ladies it has helped. Try it today.

George Christilles and his son, Paul, were up from Noonan Tuesday in their new Ford automobile. They brought with them Messrs. Louis Boenig and August Vollmering who came up on legal business connected with the sale of land. In the afternoon, the Messrs. Christilles, Toby Koch and the Anvil Herald man took a run to D'Hanis. It is a real pleasure to ride in the Ford auto, as it travels with the ease and speed of the higher priced cars. At D'Hanis we were pleasantly entertained by a number of its citizens, including the News force. A visit to the D'Hanis brick plant which we found running to its full capacity of 20,000 brick daily was quite a revelation in the production of building material. Under the management of Joe Carle the company has gotten the business down to a splendid system and are placing the finished product all over this entire section. The party returned late in the afternoon to Noonan, and Mr. Christilles, who is the agent for this car, expects to place orders for several of them among people whom he visited that day.

County Board of Education.

The following letter, handed us by County Judge Haass, is self-explanatory:

AUSTIN, TEXAS, MAY 16, 1911.
To the County Judge and the County Superintendent:—
You will permit me to respectfully direct your attention and the attention of the members of the commissioners' court of your county to Sections 4, 6 and 12 of the rural high school law enacted by the 32nd Legislature, which goes into effect on June 11, 1911.

Section 4 requires the commissioners' court of your county, at its first meeting after June 11, to appoint five county school trustees (the county board of education) to serve until the election and qualification of their successors in 1912, their election by the people in 1912 occurring on the first Saturday in April, the date of election of the trustees of common school districts.

Section 6 vests all rights and powers pertaining to public free schools, that have heretofore been vested in the commissioners' court, in the county trustees (the county board of education).

Section 12 is here quoted in full: "The county school trustees shall be qualified voters and freeholders of the precinct or county from which they are elected. They shall be of good moral character, able to read and speak the English language, shall be persons of good education and shall be in sympathy with public free schools. Four of the county school trustees shall each reside in different commissioners' precincts, and a majority of them shall reside in common school districts. Within twenty days after their election and qualification the county school trustees shall meet and organize by electing one of their number president. The county school trustees shall be elected and shall qualify in the same manner as other county officers are elected and qualified."

All of the provisions of the law are conservative and wise and contemplate a co-operation of the county board of education, the county superintendent, and the district school trustees in the promotion of the efficiency of the schools and in establishing rural high schools where practicable. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that the commissioners' court in each county select men, for membership on the county board of education, who have the qualifications prescribed in Section 12 of the act.

The State Department of Education hopes to have printed for distribution at an early date among the school officials of the State the full text of this law. As soon as your county board of education has been selected, please report their names and addresses to me.

With best wishes for the educational interests of your county, I am, Respectfully yours,

F. M. BRALLEY,
State Superintendent.

At the meeting of the Commissioners' Court last week there were petitions before the Court for the appointment of Messrs. Louis A. Heyen of New Fountain, Precinct 1, and H. G. Wilson of Yancey, Precinct 3, but the court postponed the entire matter until its regular August term, when one trustee from each Commissioners' Precinct and one from the county at large will be appointed as required by law.

In the meantime, parties wishing to recommend any one to the court for appointment should get their petitions ready.

About Telephones.

Manager J. B. Hurt of The Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. returned last week from San Antonio where he attended a meeting of commercial managers for what is known as the Southwest Texas division and of agents and owners of connecting line companies.

Mr. Hurt has outlined the work of the convention and it will be of interest to every user of a telephone to know that practically the entire discussion was based upon efforts to improve the service and to devise a method by which the conditions of operation of the Bell system may be made so familiar to the public that the fullest measure of co-operation between the company and the subscriber may be gained.

Telephone development in Texas has been remarkable during the last 10 years. There are now more than 200,000 Bell instruments in use in Texas and Arkansas and within the next twenty years it is expected that every house will be connected with the rest of the world by the copper strands that have eliminated the very idea of isolation in what was, half a century ago, one of the most thinly settled portions of North America.

Everywhere over Texas and Arkansas new farmers' lines, owned by the farmers themselves, are being extended so that to day any one within sight of a telephone pole line is within hearing distance of practically anyone anywhere, connecting with the long distance lines of the Southwestern company and so with exchanges in every city and town within the radius of the telephonic voice is afforded at a very low cost, while weather forecasts and important information are provided free to insure agriculturalists against loss by frost and rain.

An Important Deed.

There was filed for record in the County Clerk's office Wednesday a deed from Alex Y. Walton Jr., Terrell Bartlett, Willis Ranney, Duval West and Thomas B. Paifrey to the Medina Irrigation Company for the consideration of $149,200.00 in cash and cash values by which the aforesaid parties transfer all the right and title belonging to them included in the Medina irrigation project.

The land to be irrigated consists of 150,000 acres, the head-gates will be situated from 11 to 14 miles north of Castrovilla, and will embrace several surveys. The canals will be about 100 feet wide at the bottom and 15 feet deep, with a maximum carrying capacity of 1,110 cubic feet per second. It is proposed to place the main dam about 14 miles north of Castrovilla and a secondary dam 11 miles north of Castrovilla. The holding capacity of the reservoirs will be 19,385,000 cubic feet, flooding about 12,000 acres and representing the storm water discharge of the entire Medina river drainage area above that point and comprising about 700 square miles.

The Medina Irrigation Co. was recently chartered under the laws of Texas and maintains offices in San Antonio. It is capitalized at $1,000,000, and proposes spending six million dollars on the enterprise.

Married.

Two marriages in which Hondo people are especially interested took place at D'Hanis this week.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Thomas Julius Neumann and Miss Marie Ida Mann, two popular young people of the lower Hondo repaired to that city and were happily married, Rev. Father J. J. Myers performing the ceremony.

On Thursday Mr. Paul Koch, a former D'Hanis boy but now a section foreman on the C. C. & U. Ry., and Miss Augusta Hartung of this place were married, Rev. Father H. M. J. Wirtz performing the ceremony.

The Anvil Herald joins the many friends of both the happy pairs in extending to them the compliments of the occasion and wishing them bon voyage through life.

The Average Picnic.

If a man will take a hard-boiled egg, a thin ham sandwich, and a badly fractured glass of lean lemonade out on the lawn and sit down on a rustic bench—if there is one, he will come close to making a noise similar to the average picnic.

A Mystification.

"I don't see why these classic dances are so fashionable," said the society editor. "They are very artistic." "Perhaps. But there is so little chance to describe what the people who give them wear."

MOHAMMED THE FIRST.

He Enforced Total Abstinence by Religious Teachings.

Mohammed was the world's first prohibitionist.

Through the force of his religious teachings he bent his followers to abstain from alcohol, and the adherents of the Koran still obey its mandate in that respect.

By precept he accomplished what the modern prohibitionist is trying to effect through mandatory legislation.

China, India and Turkey are today under nation-wide prohibition enforced through the mandates of religion.

The opium and hashish habits have stamped themselves upon the people of the nations.

Upon this subject Frederick W. Lehmann, Solicitor General of the United States, says:

"But all dominion did not pass from the Mahammedan on the field of Tours. The followers of the Prophet today numbered nearly two hundred millions. The mandate of the Koran against the use of wine stands unrepealed and the faithful still obey. Compare these people with the descendants of the followers of Charles Martel. On which side is the cleaner life in private and in public? Where prevails the higher standard of morality, in Turkey and in Asia, or in the rest of Europe and in the United States? The disciples of Buddha and Confucius, too, refrain from the use of wine but despite their abstinence theirs is a stagnant civilization of merely passive virtues."

LAWS UNCHANGED.

Defeat of Amendment Would Leave Conditions as Now.

By defeating the state-wide prohibition amendment the local option laws will remain in force just as they are.

Counties now under license will remain so and counties classed as dry will continue the same as if no election had been held.

But on the other hand if the state wide amendment carries the present local option system, which has required the courts of Texas 34 years to perfect, would be wiped out and new laws for the enforcement of the state-wide provision would have to be framed subjecting the state to legal controversies for many years to come and involving the people in the sections where prohibition is not desired in turmoil and dissension as has been the experience of Maine, Alabama and all other states which have experimented with the state wide theory.

CHAS. W. ELIOT'S VIEWS

Ex-President Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard, sums up the whole case against prohibition in its effects on the social and political life. He says:

"The efforts to enforce it (prohibition) during forty years past have had some unlooked for effects on public respect for courts, judicial procedure, oaths and law, legislatures and public servants. The public has seen law defied, a whole generation of habitual law-breakers, schooled in evasion and shamelessness, courts ineffective through fluctuations of policy, delay, perjuries, negligence and other miscarriages of justice; officers of the law double-faced and mercenary, legislators timid and insincere."

GOMPERS ON PROHIBITION.

President of Federation of Labor Says Experience Has Proved Its Folly.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor in a statement issued by him on prohibition says:

"Experience has shown the folly of prohibition wherever it has been tried, and that saloons can be regulated by law.

"There is not a city in Maine where a stranger can not go and buy all the beer and whiskey he wants. There is no attempt whatever to disguise the fact that these places are operating in violation of the law.

"As for the illicit traffics, I have seen drunken people in every city, but I have never seen drunks so drunkly drunk as the drunks I saw in Maine.

"Organized labor has been and now is a greater factor for temperance throughout the United States than all the prohibition societies and temperance workers in the land ever have been."

ONE MILLION FEET OF SIDE WALK

One of Largest Contracts Ever Let Here Signed

Improvement work is actively in progress at Los Angeles Heights. A large force of men, between seventy-five and one hundred, are kept constantly at work laying cement sidewalks, their work at present being on Sacramento Street. The owner of this beautiful addition recently let a contract for approximately 1,000,000 feet of sidewalk, which is probably the largest contract of its kind ever made in the South. Another gang of men are digging trenches for the water mains, which will be extended on from Beacon Hill, as Los Angeles Heights adjoins this district on the north.

These large, substantial improvements which are being put through in and around the city are attracting the attention of visitors.

"The activity observable" said a Chicago man yesterday, "speaks louder than words what San Antonio's future will be. Beautiful new homes are going up daily; every train brings prospectors and homeseekers who are buying and building in the city of sunshine and the newcomer realizes that San Antonio is destined to become one of the greatest cities of the entire South."

From the San Antonio Daily Express, Feb. 15, 1911.

LAYING WATER MAINS TO THE HEIGHTS

Water Being Piped to Recently Opened Up Residence Addition Beyond Beacon Hill

Eight-inch water mains are being laid, with fire plugs at street intersections, starting at Magnolia Street and Grant Avenue in Beacon Hill addition, and running north into various parts of Los Angeles Heights addition, which adjoins Beacon Hill. The Los Angeles Heights Improvement Company are putting in these mains at their own cost and expense, and doing so for the purpose of giving their purchasers the best water service possible, not permitting this enlarged service to cost either the Beacon Hill and Los Angeles Heights residents and purchasers a cent.

The wonderful development in the business section of San Antonio has caused the inhabitants to seek building sites out of the congested districts, and several new additions have been opened up and sold recently. Many Northern people are buying suburban property and building beautiful winter homes, which all goes to show that San Antonio is destined to become one of the greatest and largest cities of the South, with her large trade territory, unexcelled climate and other advantages.

From San Antonio Daily Express, April 9, 1911.

EXTEND THE WATER MAINS

Los Angeles Heights Addition Has Service Now—Houston People Buy Lots

The work of extending city water mains through the Los Angeles Heights Addition from the Beacon Hill Addition has recently been completed, an eight-inch main having been extended from Magnolia and Grant Avenues by the Los Angeles Heights Improvement Company to furnish city water throughout the addition.

Among recent purchasers of lots in Los Angeles Heights are fourteen Houston people who came to San Antonio during the past week. Their purchases of lots totaled more than $5,000 and other Houston business men have recently bought lots in the addition.
